

THE QUATERNARY OF CENTRAL
WESTERN IRELAND:
FIELD GUIDE

Edited by:
P. Coxon

Quaternary Research Association with
Irish Quaternary Association
Cumann Staidéar Ré Cheathartha na h-Éireann

Contents

	page
Introduction
A1. The regional geology	2
A2. The Quaternary geology of central western Ireland	7
A3. AMS <sup>14</sup> C chronology/ ice sheet model for western Ireland	25
A4. Late Devensian sea-levels in western Ireland	35
Day 1 (6.4.05). Landscapes of the Gort lowlands and Burren.	39
Site 1.1. Newtown Turlough	45
Site 1.2. Kilmacduagh	45
Site 1.3. Lough Bunny	47
Site 1.4. Poulsallagh Bay	51
Site 1.5. Tills, dunes and relict karst at Fanore	60
Site 1.6. Till section at Murrough	60
Site 1.7. The Khyber Pass, Caher River	62
Site 1.8. Fanore dunes and relict karst	62
Day 2. (7.4.05) Galway Bay and the limestone lowlands of east Co. Galway
Site 2.1. Barna drumlin	64
Site 2.2. The Great western lakes: Lacustrine karst assemblages	71
Site 2.3. Pollnahallia: A Tertiary palaeosurface	79
Site 2.4. Turloughs in SE Mayo	101
Day 3. (8.4.05) Connemara
Site 3.1. View. Tertiary planation (?)	112
Site 3.2. Bóthar na Scrathóg. A Neogene palaeosurface	113
Site 3.3. Marine carbonate sediments of the Connemara coast	125
Site 3.4. Ballyconneely Bay drumlin	138
Site 3.5. Bunowen Castle	144
Site 3.6. Bunowen Castle (2)	149
Day 4. (9.4.05) Clifden, Letterfrack, Killary Harbour and Clew Bay
Site 4.1. Sky road: Connemara palimpsest	152
Site 4.2. Culfin	158
Site 4.3. Lettergesh Cashel (stone fort)	162
Site 4.4. Tullywee Bridge (Letterfrack)	164
Site 4.5. Leenaun	172
Site 4.6. Geomorphology of the Erriff Valley	179
Site 4.7. Colonel's Pool	182
Site 4.8. Srahlea Bridge	186
Site 4.9. Thornhill drumlin. Clew Bay	193
References	202

Figure 1. The location map.

Western central Ireland showing the route and sites to be visited during the field excursion.